

Brief Encounter

adapted for the stage by Emma Rice

A re-imagining of the famous film for stage, set in 1930s Britain where 'doing your duty' shaped your character. Alec and Laura's haunting love story plays out at the same time as romances develop between the train station staff. Emma Rice/Kneehigh Theatre's highly regarded theatre adaption of the film is inventive and yet true to the characters in the film. The ensemble cast invites you to join us at the train station, re-telling this story, singing some favourite Noel Coward songs with a little bit of dancing, a few train whistles and a lot of cups of tea. Whether you know the film or have never seen it, you'll enjoy watching this poignant story.
